Greg founded NZFP, which eventually became a nation-wide company. In 2014 Greg decided to exit NZFP to concentrate on his Auckland-based practice, and in doing so rebranded his business as Financial Planning New Zealand Ltd (FPNZ). In 2018 the company was again rebranded to OnePlan, to reflect the core focus of the business – planning for retirement.

He was an Auckland City Councillor, representing the inner-city Western Bays Ward, and was Chairman of the Auckland City Arts, Culture and Recreation Committee prior to the amalgamation of the Auckland City Council. He is also a former member of and was Finance spokesperson for the Waitemata Local Board between 2010 and 2016.

After many years in the financial planning industry, Greg still enjoys helping people to help themselves and is a firm believer in New Zealander's need to plan to ensure their future financial wellbeing.
